The List Of Stars and Notable People Interviewed At Gurney's Inn Last Week Was Endless

By T.J. Clemente

The hit TV show, "American Dream" is now in its 13th season. The show is hosted by Ingrid Lemme, who is the Director of Marketing and Public Relations for the resort. The show is produced and directed by the talented brothers, Ernest and Gregory Schimizzi and is filmed at Gurney's Inn. Ingrid has interviewed around 500 guests over the years, producing great television. This season's line-up is once again a mix of talented and interesting Long Island personalities. Ingrid has a way of reaching into each guests story to bring out the gems of experiences that helps define who the guests really are.

Last week, the show filmed ten interesting guests. Perhaps one of the highlights of the taping session in which 10 shows were produced was the segment with Montauk resident, TV ("Sopranos") and movie star, Aida Turturro. Aida tells why she has adopted Montauk as her new sanctity. Also interesting will be the segment of Black film Festival creator Angelique Monet who ends the segment with her ventriloquist skills.

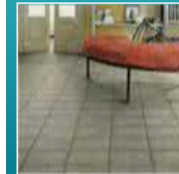

Another colorful show will be the one where Ingrid explores the styles and insights of Cognac Wellerlane the red carpet expert of the east end. Then there is a show featuring Dennis Lynch who's "King of the Hamptons", is a film about his mid life crisis that is resolved with the help of Dan and David Rattiner who introduced Mr. Lynch to their world in the Hamptons. The film included Dan's friends Billy Joel, Alec Baldwin, Christie Brinkley, along with Dan's summer party scene.

Another fascinating segment was that of Cindi Sansone-Braff author of the ultimate relationship book, "Grant Me a Higher Love." Voted the leading Long Island Psychic, by the L.I. Press along with John Edward for 2010, Cindi is never less than totally fascinating.

Howard Shapiro was also interviewed and is a doctor and the author the "Picture Perfect Weight Loss Book Series" that is very informative and told his story of weight loss and weight management and his expertise on the subject.

The Patricia Brett segment is the success of a cancer survivor who has now created the, "Patricia Brett Mastectomy Swimwear." This a powerful story of the ability to forge the mind to overcome difficult decisions and choices. It has a wonderful ending as Patricia Brett's determination is so inspiring. Ingrid really showed her charm and sensitivity while interviewing Bill Durham a noted artist and cancer survivor. The show with Jonathan Landsman, noted advocate on health issues and host of the "Natural News Hour" was also very informative. He gives insight to his coaching on better health. The final segment to be aired in 2010 and the first in 2011 will of Peter Verecke who is the Mick Jagger of the Rolling Stones tribute band "Streetfighter." The audio-video clips will show Mr. Verecke's unique talent
